Logo / Symbol

- the city's economic structure is relatively well diversified
- the greatest part of domestic product comes from the agricultural sector and food production

- subsequent branches - food processing, veterinary chemistry, seed production, mechanical and machinery production, processing of wood, textile industry, chemical industry and stonecutting, a recreational centre, a research and breed improvement institute and automobile servicing

- agriculture – about 14000 hectares of the highest-quality land belong to the first and second class of quality

- the main water canals of the hydro-system DTD (Danube-Tisa-Danube) that go through this area are of extreme importance

- crafts also have a long, reputable tradition in the area.
- craftsmen in the area established an association of craft workers more than 150 years ago.

- in addition to manufacturing crafts (which are becoming less popular due to the development of industry), handicraft services and small businesses are becoming more and more important, particularly in providing services for the metal processing industry, electric and technological sectors, and a variety of maintenance services: maintenance of agricultural machinery and mechanization, household appliances, vehicles, etc.

- cultural monuments in the Municipality of Bački Petrovac represent the richness of cultural, historical and ethnographic heritage of this area

- in addition, proximity to Novi Sad, and the mountain of Fruška Gora with its monasteries, lakes and many other attractions, significantly extends tourism possibilities
